DESCRIPTION OF THE PROGRAM:

Organized a two-day National Seminar on Globalization: Hindi Katha Sahitya (Novel & Story). In the seminar the guests discussed the impact of Globalization on literature. They also discussed its effects on writing stories, novels and poems. They expressed that the term Globalization has been in increasing since the mid-1980s. Many researchers explore works of literature so as to find reflections of diverse Globalization themes within the texts and contexts and also to verify the realities of globalization through literary forms. Other literature / literary studies are developed for evoking, supporting and interpreting different social, political, literary, and cultural concepts within the realm of Globalization.
