

Save the Children- A charity programme

This Best Practice was initiated on 22-12-2018, i.e. the National Mathematics Day.

The Department with the support of students decided to contribute some amount to “Save the Children Organization”, India which provides nutritious food for the impoverished children.

This is the world’s leading NGO which established its branch in India in 2008 and is changing the lives of many children providing nutritious food, education, protection and emergency needs.

Department has come up with the idea of collecting one rupee from each student and donate the collected amount to the organisation thereby promoting social responsibility and charity culture among the students.

Appreciation from Save the Children Organisation

First, let me just say, Thank you.

Thanks to you, Shruti celebrated her first birthday. Your first generous donation helped Shruti survive and reach an important milestone. On behalf of Save the Children India, I welcome you on board and now you are an active member of our community.

With your monthly support, we will be able to ensure that children receive nutrition and medical attention, remain in school, stay safe and get access to urgently-needed aid during emergencies. It helps us to sustain our programmes for a long time. At the same time, it empowers us to widen the scope of our work to transform communities, childcare systems and influence State-level and National-level policies in the best interest of children.
